COMMUNITY LEADERS SAY BREXIT POSES RISK TO TOWN

‘Leaving the EU would put jobs in jeopardy’

Gemma Gardner
gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

LEAVING the European Union would threaten jobs and put the Harlow economy at risk, according to a group of community leaders.

A letter signed by business leaders, health workers, educationalists, community stalwarts and cultural ambassadors warns that Brexit would deter investment in the town.

Harlow Leave campaigners responded by arguing that many companies do no business with the EU but are still bound by regulations passed down from Brussels.

Directors

The letter sent to the Star has been signed by the chairmen and managing directors of 10 companies, including Gratech Ltd, Astro Lighting and Robert Stuart Ltd.

Also named in the list of 23 signatories from business, health, the arts and education are the heads of Burnt Mill Academy Trust and Passmore Academy and Princess Alexandra Hospital chief executive Phil Morley.

The letter reads: “Having just recovered from economic recession,

TASTE OF SUCCESS:
 Ellie Evans held a cake sale to raise money for the NIC unit at PAH

Ellie's cake bake sale raises cash

A KIND-hearted girl raised more than £160 by holding a bake sale for the hospital unit that cared for her and her younger sister.

Churchgate Primary School pupil Ellie-Mae Evans held the sale at her home after deciding to do something to help others.

She chose Princess Alexandra Hospital's neonatal intensive care unit to benefit from her fundraising efforts as both she and her sister Evie were treated in the unit when they were born.

Proud mum Sara Evans, who is a trustee at the Kisses4Kids charity, said: "It was all Ellie's idea and she did a great job."

"Ellie is she has the biggest, kindest heart of anyone I know. She teaches me to be a better person everyday. I'm very proud of her."

In total Ellie raised £165 for the unit which Kisses4Kids has agreed to match.

Union's warning as 138 firefighter jobs go in spending cuts

Authority agrees to make £6.4m budget savings

Ken Morley

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

UNION leaders have warned that a decision to axe more than a fifth of the county's full-time firefighters will put the public at greater risk.

Essex County Fire and Rescue Service will lose 138 of its 570 full-time firefighters as it looks to make annual savings of £6.4m annual savings.

No stations will close as a result of the decision and the number of on-call firefighters will increase from 437 to 456.

Essex Fire Authority members were faced with three options, two of which would have changed the crewing of the second fire engine at Harlow fire station from full-time to on-call. However, they decided on a course of action which leaves the status of crews and appliances at Harlow unscathed.

In December the service was informed its multi-million pound grant from central government – around 20 per cent of its annual budget – will disappear by 2020.

Consultation

It then embarked on a 12-week consultation with staff and the public to gauge opinions on three potential money-saving schemes. More than 17,000 responses were received, the majority favouring option two which was agreed by the fire authority last Wednesday.

EFA chairman Anthony Hedley said the implementation plan for option two will be designed by Essex Fire Service and presented to the authority in September.

"The decision provides clarity on the future of the service," he said. "Option two gives us the greatest scope to provide a robust response while

The chosen option

AS a result of the decision taken by Essex Fire Authority last week, second fire engines will be removed from Orsett Fire Station, Rayleigh Weir Fire Station, Loughton Fire Station, Corringham Fire Station and Frinton Fire Station.

The service will be left with 66 fire engines, 18 of which would be whole-time and the remaining 48 on-call.

The number of whole-time firefighters will be reduced from 570 to 432 and the number of on-call firefighters increased from 437 to 456.

The anticipated savings of implementing the proposals are £6.4m annually but will require a two per cent increase in the fire service proportion of council tax, equivalent to approximately £1.35 a expanding the service's role in prevention and protection and it was great to have the confidence of 70 per cent of respondents.

"Both our consultation and the analysis of its results were carried out by professional experts so I have no doubt that our findings are a true reflection of what the people of Essex think."

Gary Critch, chairman of the Essex Fire Brigade Union, said there was no question the cuts would diminish the service's ability to respond when the public are in danger.

Union secretary Riccardo la Torre said: "I appreciate this was the least worst of the options considered by the authority but these are the biggest cuts we have ever seen to firefighting in Essex."

year on the average Band D property.

It is predicted to meet both the response standards, attending potentially life-threatening calls in an average of 10 minutes and 90 per cent of all calls within 15 minutes.

"Essex makes the most rescues in the country, second only to London, which is an incredible statistic."

He added: "People need saving regardless of the politics that goes on behind the scenes and we don't want this year's people in need to become next year's fatality statistics."

Worrying

"The cuts are worrying, there is no getting around that. More than 95 per cent of respondents to the consultation voted for the smallest frontline cuts or for no cuts at all."

"What I hope for now is an open and honest dialogue with the fire authority and Essex Fire Service so that the safety of the public and our own firefighters aren't put in jeopardy."

our students benefit from the ease of opportunities to travel and learn abroad, giving them a broader perspective for their education."

Harlow MP Robert Halfon has also backed the views expressed in the letter. He said: "Unemployment has fallen significantly and we have a new multimillion-pound Enterprise Zone and Public Health England moving to our town. I support Remain because of the risks to our jobs and security."

However, Leave campaigners say they also have the support of many of the town's teachers, health professionals and business leaders.

Businessman Chris Ford and Harlow Vote Leave's business spokesman said: "The overwhelming number of businesses in this country are small and medium enterprises and 95 per cent of businesses in this country do no business with the EU whatsoever."

Regulations

"However they are of course bound up in the directives and regulations passed down by the EU and a vote to leave the EU is a vote to free those businesses."

"Real people have seen their wages face deflation and a lack of jobs partly due to migration – multinationals and bankers have done very well out of the EU but not the normal person on the street."

Karen Spencer, the principal of Harlow College, is one of the signatories to the letter but college governor and Harlow Vote Leave finance chief Eddie Johnson, added "there are a series of differing viewpoints" at the educational establishment.

The EU referendum will be held on Thursday, June 23.

Family video launched Old Harlow girl – now she's back again

Singing star has teamed up with talented rapper

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TEENAGE singing sensation Sophia Grace Brownlee is hoping to achieve more chart success with her new single, four years after she shot to international stardom when a family video of her covering a Nicki Minaj song went viral.

The youngster, from Old Harlow, has recorded the song Girl In The Mirror with American rapper Silento, whose single Watch Me (Whip/Nae Nae) was a hit around the world.

Sophia Grace, who celebrated her 13th birthday in April, was nine when she and her cousin Rosie McClelland were flown to America to perform on chat show host Ellen De Generes' top-rated television show after their version of the hit Super Bass clocked up 50million views on YouTube.

Performance

After the performance Nicki Minaj came on the show to meet the two girls before rapping with them. What followed was a whirlwind of TV and guest appearances as the pair became overnight sensations.

IN THE PINK: Sophia Grace and Rosie when they found fame four years ago

The cousins were given their own slot on the Ellen De Generes Show in which they interviewed stars including Taylor Swift, Miley Cyrus, Katy Perry and Justin Bieber.

They also starred in their own film called Sophia Grace and Rosie's Royal Adventure and had two books released under the title Tea Time with Sophia Grace and Rosie.

In 2014 a deal was struck to release their own dolls which sang Super Bass.

In the video for her new single, which explores the issues of identity and self-awareness to spread a positive message to a teenage audience, Sophia Grace asks Silento if there is anything he would change about himself.

Change

He replies: "I don't think there is anything I would change, how about you?" to which she says: "No, I like who I am."

Sophia Grace is seen dancing in her bedroom before being transported into a video scene where she dresses up and dances with Silento. It has already been watched more than one million times since it went online on Friday.

Her previous singles, Girls Just Gotta Have Fun and Best Friends, were watched more than 50 million times online and also reached the top 100 in the US singles chart.

Girl In The Mirror is available on iTunes ahead of the release of her solo album.

TRAGIC DEATH: Daniela Ruggiero

Driver who caused two deaths avoids jail term

A DRIVER who caused the death of a former Harlow College student and her friend in a crash has avoided a prison sentence.

Daniela Ruggiero, who studied dance for two years at the college, and Charlotte Dove were on their way to The Dance College in Royston where they were training to become teachers, when a deer leaped in front of their car.

Ms Ruggiero brought her car to a standstill after it hit the animal on the A10 near Puckeridge but the driver behind – Luiz Rocker, of Tower Road, Ware – ploughed into the back of the stationary vehicle without applying the brakes.

Ms Ruggiero and Ms Dove were killed when their car burst into flames.

Rocker, 48, was given a 16-month sentence suspended for two years and disqualified from driving for 18 months when he appeared at St Albans Crown Court on Monday. He had previously pleaded guilty to causing their deaths by careless driving but was cleared of the more serious charge of causing death by dangerous driving.

Judge Mark Dennis said he had arrived at the "firm conclusion" that the sentence should be suspended and said the defendant "went beyond what was expected in law" when he tried to pull the girls from the burning car.

In a statement released after sentence was passed, Ms Ruggiero's family described her as "vibrant, so talented, full of life and a joy to everyone who met her".

"She wanted to become a dance teacher and this would have been her future career. Our pain and suffering will go on forever."

Turn down the volume

SIR, As a welcome relief to the vital debate on the EU referendum (Letters, June 9) to which I have been a contributor, I draw readers' attention to the great news reported in the national press that Marks and Spencer will cease playing in-store music in their branches.

There were other recent reports on councils around the country having to close their public conveniences as being too costly to manage.

If only ASDA, Esquires Coffee House, Pizza Hut and the café in the Latton Bush Centre – all in Harlow – could also follow M&S lead, how more relaxing the experience would be not having to rely on lip reading when attempting to converse with another in these venues. Or perhaps they could compromise by turning the volume down?

Our MP and a local councillor have in the past commented upon the redevelopment of the northern end of the town centre, one opting for more cafes while the other for none. I hope that within the development plans there is the provision of public conveniences.

These proposals will bring relief to many in more ways than one.

Save county's rail crossings

SIR, Network Rail has been talking for some time about proposals to stop the use of a number of footway level crossings in Essex.

However, the scale of those involved in their recently announced programme is overwhelming. Over 60 crossings have been identified across Essex. It is an unprecedented attack on walking and riding routes.

It seems it is not Network Rail's intention to build bridges but to divert footpaths and bridle ways to other crossing points. This will mean the loss of well-used and much-loved footpaths and local walks.

We should remember most of these paths are older than the railway and to lose them will be a major loss to local communities. We should all be concerned.

A series of meetings has been announced by Network Rail to give details of the proposals to the public and they have opened an online site for people not able to attend. Anyone who uses a rail footway level crossing, whether for walking the dog, a shortcut home, cycling or walking, should make the effort to attend one of the meetings or fill in the on line feedback.

We not only need to understand the proposals but make Network Rail aware of what we think. This is not something we can afford to ignore. We need to engage now and make our feelings about the proposals known.

Essex Ramblers appeals to everyone to get involved and support us in fighting to keep our footpaths open. Please visit www.essexramblers.co.uk for details of the meetings or www.networkrail.co.uk/anglialevelcrossings for online feedback.

Road plans are ridiculous

SIR, Another round of presentations of Essex County Council's road proposals are to take place this month.

These regurgitated proposals are becoming more and more associated with Cllr Rodney Bass personally and less and less likely to change so long as he has anything to do with it.

One is driven to the conclusion that there must be a hidden agenda for such ridiculous proposals to be forced onto the people of Harlow.

Procrastination on the topic of an additional access to the M11 and the essential northern link road has gone on for decades and so it might seem unfair to lay all the blame on Cllr Bass. However, his abrasive and unco-operative manner and his failure to deal with the matter on a regional basis and to concentrate on the narrow one of Harlow (and adjacent to a proposed new large housing development at its north east corner) indicates that he is not the man for the job.

His public comments about lack of meaningful liaison with Hertfordshire County Council are just appalling.

All the study work, overall conclusions and then decisions should be in the hands of Highways England, but it seems that central government has made their position sufficiently ambiguous as to make them impotent.

So, with the present political arrangements, Highways England will receive Cllr Bass's proposals, produce a report to justify their involvement, possibly make some trivial changes and then rubber-stamp the proposals.

I have said it before and I will say it again, this topic should be the responsibility of central government, using a dynamic Highways England as the hands-on operator.

Ashamed by state of area

SIR, My sister and her husband recently visited this country from Australia but I was too embarrassed to invite them to visit me at home due to the state of the area I live in.

Because of the dumped rubbish and general rundown state of Longbanks, I had to meet them at a pub for lunch. I don't think this is right, do you?

State of pond is a disgrace

SIR, In November last year the Star covered the story of the clean-up of Oakwood Pond. At the time it didn't look too great but obviously it had all just been changed and moved.

However, it's now seven months down the line and this pond is a disgrace.

I have lived in the area for 20 years and used to take my son there to feed the ducks and sometimes have a bit of quite time to myself. It used to be a tranquil and beautiful spot even in the autumn and winter but now it is just a bog.

Kids used to fish over there but there has been a fishing ban for many years.

Yes it did need cleaning as it was very murky and smelly. Yes the workers may have emptied the pond and dredged it but it just looks like they used the pond earth to make different standing areas at each end. The island was made bigger but his has sunk. There used to be a bench that kids could sit on and feed the ducks but it has gone.

The whole pond area is unsafe and not a nice place to be. The Nettesswell Pond makeover a few years ago was great but this is nothing like that.

Bodged is a word that comes to mind.

Bus service to hospital

SIR, Further to previous correspondence regarding the lack of public transport serving retail parks along Edinburgh Way, I know of many older people who no longer drive and would welcome a bus route there.

It would also allow them to be able to go to the cinema without the expense of a taxi.

My main concern though is a proper bus service to the hospital, where parking is very expensive and there is a lack of spaces.

I am sure this would be welcome by many people and also free up many spaces.

My car park nightmare

SIR, Taking my son to A&E at Princess Alexandra Hospital after he passed out turned out to be an absolute nightmare.

I wasted what could have been valuable time to get change to purchase a parking ticket which I then placed on the dashboard. After three hours I had to leave my son alone in a cubicle to purchase yet another ticket.

I followed the procedure and placed it clearly on the dashboard but returned to my car after seven hours to find I had a parking fine stuck to my windscreen.

I disputed the ticket and after three weeks received a letter from CPP which suggested they were doing me a favour by canceling the penalty charges as a gesture of goodwill.

At one of the most stressful times in one's life, having to pay and display to park is ridiculous. A lady we sat with also had to leave her three-year-old child in A&E to return to her car to purchase another ticket.

With the money the hospital receives for parking, it should upgrade the system to allow people to pay on exit for the time used instead of making our lives an absolute misery.

Rude cyclist in the wrong

SIR, This letter is aimed at the extremely rude lady who cycled passed me and my daughter on the lane between the Town Park and Old Harlow on the morning of Saturday, May 28.

I was walking with my one-year-old daughter in her buggy, keeping close to the right side because there is no path. The cyclist was riding towards us and had plenty of time to move over but carried on almost straight at us, shaking her head and muttering something about me being on the wrong side of the path.

Rule two of the Highway Code rules for pedestrians states: "If there is no pavement, keep to the right-hand side of the road so you can see oncoming traffic..."

I am also an experienced cyclist and have been commuting to work for the past 12 years. I use roads and cycle tracks and I know how annoying, not to mention dangerous, it is when pedestrians just wander all over the cycle track with their children, dogs and buggies etc.

That lane is an unsegregated cycle track and I was walking exactly where I should have been. I wasn't causing any kind of obstruction and my daughter was being very well behaved.

There was no need for such rudeness; if you had something to say then at least have the courage to tell me to my face.

Good to have Square back

SIR, I am writing to express my gratitude to all the people who volunteered to breathe life back into The Square.

For six months locals felt disheartened by the closure of the venue and were living in hope that the relaunch of Square One would be granted so that we could have somewhere to listen to live music, discuss politics, socialise and express ourselves.

The beauty of SquareOne is that anyone of any age is made to feel welcome in a friendly community in a non-judgemental, safe environment.

The energy of all the artists who have played there over the years is buried deep within the walls. It would have been tragic to have knocked down such an iconic building.

I know the venue is still living on borrowed time and there are still plans for its future, but at least we have the building back for the time being.

with the hedge," said Brenda.

"It's been there for years, even before Harlow was built. The council won't come and collect it either."

A 28-year-old man from Harlow was arrested on suspicion of drink driving following the collision. He has been released on police bail until August 3.

Video vigilante: 'I feel no guilt'

But self-styled paedophile hunter says he was shocked by man's death

Richard Brown

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A SELF-styled paedophile hunter says he feels no guilt over the suicide of a Harlow man caught on camera allegedly attempting to meet up with a 14-year-old girl.

Christopher Wood goes by the name of Catfish the Hunter to ensnare suspected sex offenders and groomers, but earlier this month courted controversy after the death of father-of-two Terry Hurford, who was arrested by police on suspicion of grooming after being filmed.

"I see what I do as a duty," he said. "I know that what I'm doing is 100 per cent within the law but a lot of people think it is morally wrong."

"My heart is in the right place and I'm trying to do some good."

Mr Wood, 23, created the fake profile of a 14-year-old girl. He adopted the alias of Catfish the Hunter and quickly amassed a large social media following.

He started checking chat websites and a dating site in the hope of attracting predators, but is adamant what he is doing is not entrapment always waited for the man to make the first contact.

"The guys will always ask me questions first and I will reply, he said."

He currently estimates he is in conversation with up to 20 men but it is the case of Mr Hurford, who was confronted after he drove from Harlow to Canvey Island allegedly planning to meet a 14-year-old girl called Lizzie, that has put him in the spotlight.

Two videos of their encounter, in which Mr Hurford questions Mr Hurford about his intentions were uploaded to the internet.

Three days after he was arrested,

44-year-old Mr Hurford hanged himself.

"I really do feel sorry for his family but I don't feel like I'm guilty for whatever happened to him," said Mr Wood. "I didn't instigate the messages, I didn't instigate the meeting and I didn't instigate his suicide."

He added: "What happened was a tragedy but Terry had problems."

"His death has made me think long and hard about what I'm doing. I don't feel any guilt over what happened but I certainly don't want it to happen again."

"What happened with Terry Hurford really shocked me but I do believe I'm what I'm doing and what I'm saying."

He added: "I'm going to keep on uploading the videos but I will blur the faces until they have been through the courts and been found guilty," he said.

■ Essex Police will not be investigated by an independent watchdog over the death of Mr Hurford.

The force had referred the case to the Independent Police Complaints Commission but it ruled that the matter could be dealt with internally by the force.

Suicide victim had history of self-harm, inquest told

TERRY Hurford had self harmed in the months before his death, an inquest was told.

Coroner's officer Malcolm Stewart told the hearing in Chelmsford police were satisfied there were no suspicious circumstances surrounding Mr Hurford's death.

"There was a recent history of Mr Hurford self-harming by the means of cutting his wrists around 10 months previously," said Mr Stewart. "He was separated from his wife and children, who resided at a different address."

Coroner Eleanor McGann said she was satisfied and sure that Mr Hurford intended to kill himself due to his history of self-harm and the extensive notes he left behind.

"One of the notes to his children mentions that 'everything I own is now yours'," she said. "There is a further note that reads like an informal will and deals with dispersal of assets. Clearly we have someone who is contemplating his own death and intending to die. He says in his note to his children he is so very sorry."

She also said how Mr Hurford wrote in his notes: "I just made a bad call. I have made my life impossible to carry on with, I will never get back on track. I don't think I have a place in this life any more so I have decided to buck out."

In brief

Man's death not suspicious

HARLOW: The death of a man whose body was found in Netteswell Orchard in the early hours of last Thursday is not being treated as suspicious.

Paramedics from the East of England Ambulance Service Trust were dispatched after reports the victim, who has not been named, had been found with serious injuries.

A trust spokesman said they treated the man but he died at the scene.

Police initially treated the death as unexplained but the following day said it was no longer suspicious and a file was being prepared for the Essex coroner.

Keep fit while raising charity cash

HARLOW: A fundraising fitness day will be held at GPCA in Abercrombie Way to raise money for homeless charity The Chocolate Run.

Six popular local fitness instructors are donating their time and expertise for free. Charity chairman Jo Busson said: "It is just £10 for just six classes whether you decide to do just one, two or all six, a bargain you will agree. Work out, raise funds and have fun."

The event will be held on Saturday, June 25 from 10am to 4pm.

Drugs accused held in custody

HARLOW: A 40-year-old man has been charged with possession with intent to supply class A drugs. Mohammed Arfan Khan, of Park Mead, was arrested on Thursday (June 6) and appeared at Chelmsford Magistrates Court the following day when he was remanded in custody until July 8.

QUEEN'S 90TH: Shopping centre hosts a day of celebration as young and old

FLYING THE FLAG: Two spectators enjoy some of the entertainment

Ken Morley

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE Harvey Centre was decked out in Union flags and bunting for a day of celebrations to mark the Queen's 90th birthday.

The stars of the event, which had been months in the planning, were nine Harlow residents also celebrating their 90th birthdays this year.

They were treated as royalty as they enjoyed a traditional afternoon tea provided by Tesco and Couzens Bakery before being presented with gifts by Harlow Council chairwoman Edna Stevens.

Cllr Stevens also cut a four-tier birthday cake supplied by Reksio, slices of which were then shared out among visitors.

Members of the Lesley Whitaker

School of Dance showed how to glide gracefully across the dance floor there was also a performance by the Harlow Community Choir.

Shoppers were handed free flags and got the chance to take a selfie with a life-size cardboard cutout of Her Majesty, while the council organised a treasure hunt with prizes for people who found all the images of the Queen hidden in windows throughout the town centre.

There was also plenty to keep youngsters busy with tiara and crown-making workshops, glitter tattoos and a 'pin the nose on the corgi' competition. They also had their own treasure hunt with prizes supplied by the Phoenix Resource Centre.

Paradise Wildlife Park took along ride-on-horse toys for youngsters to play on while centre mascot Harvey

NE VOICE: Harlow Community Choir gave a stirring performance

the Hippo greeted visitors. Harvey Centre manager Bryan Young said: "This was an event for the people of Harlow and we wanted to ensure there was something for everyone, no matter their age. "With the support from a number of organisations in Harlow and our tenants we were able to put on an event that our Queen would've been proud to attend. The Harlow community certainly likes a party and there's no doubt the 90-year-olds showed everyone how it's done." Melanie Green, who attended the celebrations with her husband, daughter and baby grandson, said: "We had a great time watching the dancers and sitting with some of Harlow's older generation. It was a great event and we couldn't have wished for a better afternoon."

It's party time across the town as residents hold the own celebrations

STACKFIELD: A damp start could not spoil the party spirit as more than 65 people, ranging in age from a day-old baby to 85-year old street favourite Ernie joined in the celebrations. There were sandwiches and cakes, children's games, a dog competition and cake contest before the afternoon was rounded off with a barbecue.

How hospice inspired Michael to take part in the Midnight Walk

MANY of the hundreds of people who have signed up for St Clare Hospice's Midnight Walk next month will have personal reasons for taking part.

Among them will be Michael Handley, 22, from Old Harlow, who is determined to give something back after seeing the care his father, Mark, has been receiving over the past few months from both the day therapy service and the clinical team.

Mark, 52, started attending day therapy sessions at the Hastingwood hospice soon after he was diagnosed with a brain tumour in June last year.

"Dad had to give up his business because of his illness and was just at home all the time so the group came as such a relief to him," said Michael. "Every Friday he would come and meet with other men of a similar age with life-limiting conditions which has helped him come to terms with his illness.

"He would come home after a few hours at the hospice like a completely different person. It was just amazing."

As Mark's illness progressed he needed further support and St Clare has been providing the family respite care in its inpatient unit.

"When dad was diagnosed we just didn't know what to expect as a family having never experienced an illness like this before," said Michael. "As his condition has deteriorated he has lost a lot of his abilities and it was down to me, my mum and my brother to care for him. We are all working full-time so were having to get up at the crack of dawn to help wash, dress and feed dad. We were all just shattered."

"Dad was admitted to hospital in London and all he kept saying was 'I want to go to St Clare'. He was begging us to go for a tour so we could see what it is like."

"My mum and I came for a visit and it was just a breath of fresh air. Everyone was so nice and helpful – it was like all the pressure of caring for dad was released. We could go back to being a family again."

He added: "Dad is getting incredible care and all our family is supported. We can visit at any time of day, my mum can sleep over and the staff are there for us if things get too much."

"I am stunned by the amazing volunteers. They are always there offering us cups of tea and all the little things that just make such a difference. I can now actually spend time with my dad instead of running around making meals for him or getting drinks. We can be father and son again."

Michael will be taking part in the Midnight Walk on Saturday, July 2 with a group of friends including Beth Collins, Kate Adams and Emily Fox. He has already received sponsorship pledges of more than £1,400 on his online Justgiving page.

Jade Clarke, St Clare's challenge and events fundraiser, said: "It is such a privilege for us to be able to provide support to Mark and Michael's comments just go to show the difference St Clare makes."

"The money we raise at events like the Midnight Walk is just so important and helps us to care for people and their loved ones at one of life's hardest moments."

■ To sponsor Michael visit www.justgiving.com/fundraising/Midnight-walk-michaelandbeth.

Here's how you can sign up for next month's fundraiser

THE Midnight Walk is the largest event in St Clare Hospice's calendar and organisers are hoping it will raise £60,000, giving a huge boost towards its annual running costs of £3.75m.

The neon-themed fundraiser starts and finishes at The Water Gardens in Harlow town centre on Saturday, July 2 and walkers can choose either a 5km or 10km route.

Registration opens at 9.30pm and will be followed by a warm-up routine led by staff from PureGym and Clubbercise Harlow. Both walks will start at 11pm.

The cost of taking part is £20 for adults (16 years and over) and £10 for children (11-15 years). Online registration at www.stclarehospice.org.uk/event/midnight-walk-2016 is open until Wednesday, June 22.

Alternatively you can pick up a registration form available from the hospice reception at Hastingwood and all eight St Clare charity shops or call Jade Clarke on (01279) 773756. Tickets to take part will also be available on the night.

The Midnight Walk is sponsored by solicitors Barnes and Partners and supported by the Star,

Parents support new drink/drug drive crackdown

Crash victims' families back police campaign

Ken Morley

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A SUMMER campaign against drink and drug driving is being supported by the families of two friends who died when their car was hit by a vehicle being driven a man high on a cocktail of alcohol and drugs.

Corran Powell, 21, and James Simmons, 18, were killed when the car they were travelling in was involved in the head-on collision in December 2014.

James died at the scene while Corran survived the initial impact but passed away in hospital eight days later.

The 30-year-old driver of the other car was also killed. A post mortem investigation revealed he was more than three times over the legal drink-drive limit and under the influence of drugs including cocaine and cannabis.

On Friday Essex Police launched its latest road safety campaign with the backing of James and Corran's parents – Gennie and Antony Powell and Mike and Jill Simmons.

Mr and Mrs Simmons said: "Driving any vehicle comes with responsibilities, you are essentially in charge of a dangerous weapon. If you must drink or take drugs please don't get behind the wheel."

"James was a kind-hearted, caring lad. He didn't take drugs but drugs killed him."

"We talk about James and the cruel events of that day every single day but people just don't realise the devastation it causes. Please don't put another family through this."

KILLED: James Simmons, above, and Corran Powell

Mr and Mrs Powell added: "Corran's death has left a gaping hole in everything we do, a hole that cannot be filled. I would never want anyone to feel about me the way I feel about the driver who got into a car that day knowing he had had too much to drink and had taken drugs."

Last year Essex Police arrested 1,191 drivers on suspicion of drink driving. Between March 2015 and the end of the year, 81 drivers were arrested on suspicion of drug driving.

As part of this year's campaign road policing officers will be patrolling towns with busy night time economies as well as rural areas where some drivers believe they have less chance of getting caught.

In addition to traditional breath tests, officers will be using new drug testing kits to detect drivers under the influence of illegal drugs including cannabis and cocaine.

Adam Pipe, casualty reduction manager at Essex Police, said: "Drink and drug driving devastates lives and I would like to express my gratitude to Gennie and Antony Powell and Mike and Jill Simmons for agreeing to help us with our campaign this year."

"I cannot begin to imagine what they have been through and the pain they live with every day but innocent people like them are my team's motivation."

County police and crime commissioner Roger Hirst said: "Bad driving is one of the biggest killers we face in Essex. I urge everyone to take responsibility when they get behind the wheel and not to drive whilst under the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs."

EU REFERENDUM: Political heavyweights visit Harlow to rally support for their campaigns

IN: It's all about jobs says the PM

JOB and the economy were the focus of the Prime Minister when he visited Harlow on Friday to champion the Remain campaign.

David Cameron was taken on a tour of Robert Stuart Ltd, in Edinburgh Way, after which he spoke to journalists about the impact leaving the EU could have on businesses in the town.

"It is about jobs, jobs, jobs," he said. "I want us to make more things, sell more things and see more people get life chances."

"This firm is a classic example of that. It supplies the aerospace industry and it is unquestionably better off with us in the European Union collaborating with other partners and suppliers. That's why I wanted to come and make that point right here."

Mr Cameron, who was joined by Harlow MP Robert Halfon, added: "Looking right across the East of England there are 300,000 people working in this region whose jobs depend on us being in the European Union."

"In this region 56 per cent of what we make and sell goes to the EU. The right answer for jobs and for livelihoods, for people to have more opportunities, is to stay in a reformed European Union. That is what it's all about."

IN CROWD: David Cameron and Robert Halfon at Robert Stuart Ltd

On the issue of immigration, Mr Cameron said: "I'm not avoiding this issue, the economy is the most important one. If you have a strong economy that is the answer to all the other questions."

"There are important ways of controlling immigration and I think the best thing to do is to bring in my changes which means you have to work here for four years before you have full access to welfare benefits. We only get those changes if we stay in the European Union."

He added: "There are thousands of immigrants who are coming in and working very hard. In our social care system there are 60,000 people from other EU countries doing that vital work."

"We do benefit from people working. We want to make sure people come and pay in before they get out."

Mr Halfon said: "The European Union is vital to this company because so much of their business is done in Europe. It is all about jobs and that is one of the reasons I decided to back the campaign to remain in."

FORMER Conservative Party leader and prominent Brexit supporter Iain Duncan Smith arrived in Harlow aboard the campaign battlebus on Saturday.

Mr Duncan Smith spoke to shoppers in Broad Walk, telling them: "Harlow has the type of residents that would vote to leave. It is a town that knows the meaning of earning a living."

"I think one of the points I made recently is that migration has dropped the wages of the low skilled. It's been a disaster for them."

"Migration shows that in just under 10 years 1.1 million people have come into the country. That is a city the size of Birmingham which puts pressure on wages, hospitals, schools and housing."

Mr Duncan Smith, who was heckled by pre-EU supporters wearing Boris Johnson masks, was accompanied by the leader of Harlow's Vote Leave campaign, Councillor Andrew Johnson as he chatted to people and shook hands.

"If Remain want to put up a little stunt of four people running round shouting abuse that is their problem," he said. "All they do now is shout abuse."

He rejected claims that figures used by the Brexit campaign

SHOUT OUT: Iain Duncan Smith with Brexit supporters in Harlow

were untrue and said: "They have got our money and they are giving it back to us, telling us what to do. When you leave you take control of all of that."

"This money is taken by them and it is spent on the things they want to do. If we take control of all of that we will decide what money we will spend it on and spend it better than they do."

Responding to claims that thousands of jobs would be put at risk if the UK left the EU, Mr Duncan Smith said "How do they know that? They don't know that, do they?"

"The European Union has got youth unemployment levels of 60 per cent in some places."

"There is a real crisis going on in the Eurozone and if we stay in we get tied to that. We are not in the Euro but we have to trade with these people and we will be involved in bailouts."

"The Remain campaign can no longer guarantee jobs. No government can guarantee jobs. The idea that you can guarantee jobs is ridiculous; look at what happened in the recession."

"Only six per cent of businesses in the UK export anything to the European Union."

MEDALS: Some of the children who took part in the Race for Life event at Milwards Primary and Nursery

Pupils run up a grand total of £2k for charity

PUPILS at a Harlow primary school have raised almost £2,000 after holding their own Race For Life event.

Youngsters in all age groups at Milwards Primary and Nursery, in Paringdon Road, took part in the fundraiser during which they had to complete laps of the school grounds.

Between them the children in the school's nursery class completed a distance of a mile while, on average, those in Key Stage 1 covered two to three miles, and those in Key Stage 2 two to six miles.

All the children who took part were presented with a medal in recognition of their efforts.

So far they have raised a total of £1,968.62 the school's crowdfunding page is still open for anyone wanting to make a donation.

Good day for secondary as Ofsted note improvements

Latest report is full of praise for school

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

LITTLE more than two years after Ofsted inspectors rated it as inadequate, a Harlow secondary school is celebrating after receiving a glowing report.

Teaching at Mark Hall Academy, in First Avenue, was said to engage the interest of students, whose behaviour was described as outstanding and showed a positive attitude towards learning.

Following the inspection in September 2013 the school joined the Academy Transformation Trust, with Corinne Franceschi taking over as principal.

Improvement

Immediate improvement followed as Mark Hall became the only town secondary to achieve an improvement in the number of pupils attaining five A*-C grades at GCSE, including English and mathematics, last summer.

Last week Ofsted issued its

latest report in which the school was awarded a rating of 'good' in all four key areas of inspection – achievement of pupils, quality of teaching, behaviour and safety of pupils and leadership and management.

Ms Franceschi said: "It is only three years ago that the predecessor Mark Hall School was 17th from bottom of all state-funded secondary schools nationally and in a desperate state."

"I am delighted with this report as it reflects the efforts of every member of the community to raise standards and ensure the academy is one we can all be proud of."

Inspectors praised the vision of the school while the Academy Transformation Trust congratulated staff and students for their tireless work.

Ms Franceschi added: "This is obviously a landmark in our journey to an overall judgement of 'outstanding' by the time Ofsted visit us again."

"I am certain this goal is an achievable one and I look forward to continuing to endeavour to make Mark Hall Academy the very best it can be."

High-flyers finish third in rocket contest

IT REALLY was rocket science for a group of students from Stewards Academy who secured third place in a national competition.

The team of Alfie Ivison, Andrea Danila, Craig Morland-Banks, Charlie Winters and Jamie Harding took part in the UK Aerospace and Rocketry Challenge Finals at Stow Maries Great War Aerodrome near Maldon.

Stewards, in Parnell Road, was one of six schools in Essex to make it into the finals after blasting through a qualification round.

The students had to design and build a rocket which would carry two raw eggs to a height of 850ft before returning them to the ground undamaged.

More than 185 students nationally took part, with the Stewards' team proving to be high-flyers with their top three finish.

Knife attack teen 'flipped' at insult

Lashed out in anger after being called 'Abdul'

Court Reporter

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

A TEENAGER who lashed out with a knife during a street attack in Harlow has been sentenced to 30 months in a youth offender institution.

Joseph Alex, 18, of Little Grove Field, Harlow, claimed he slashed a 17-year-old with the blade because he called him 'Abdul', Chelmsford Crown Court was told on Tuesday.

Alex pleaded guilty to attempting to inflict grievous bodily harm with intent and to making a threat with a bladed article.

Gerwyn Wise, prosecuting, said police were alerted to the attack by a resident. Although the victim refused to co-operate with officers, CCTV footage which was played to the judge showed four youths getting out of a car and approaching him.

Alex was seen putting on gloves and concealing a knife in his hoodie before using it to swipe at the victim's upper body and then again when he fell on the ground. Mr Wise said the defendant's friends then grabbed hold of Alex and the victim ran off.

Lucy Ginsberg, representing Alex, said in mitigation he had been bullied at school after moving to Harlow from east London.

Bullied

"His London school was multi-racial and he had no issues, but when he moved to Harlow it was predominantly a white school and he was significantly bullied because of his appearance, particularly from this victim," said Ms Ginsberg.

She said that while in London he had worked hard to keep away from gangs but "things went downhill" when he moved to Harlow.

Referring to the incident, she said Alex came across the victim by chance and armed himself with the knife for protection. "He [the victim] called him Abdul and at that moment he flipped," she said. "He doesn't remember much, adrenalin kicked in."

Ms Ginsberg said her client was worried that a custodial sentence would prevent him from spending time with his ill father in his last few years.

But passing sentence, judge Christopher Ball said he did not believe Alex and his friends had come upon the victim by chance.

"It was an attack spearheaded by you with the moral support of your mates against someone with whom you were establishing some sort of feud," said the judge. "You tooled up. You took the law into your own hands."

He added: "The courts absolutely loathe the young hooligans who go on to the streets with knives and use knives to sort out their problems."

"You are lucky not to be facing something worse."

Help to protect our busy bees

Beelines

■ Honey bees live as large colonies in structures built from beeswax called hives. There are three types of bees in a colony – drones, workers and queens.

■ Honey is made from the nectar and sweet deposits that bees collect from plants and trees. Honey is stored in honeycomb as a food source for the colony.

■ Bees have two pairs of wings – the larger fore wings and the smaller hind wings.

■ The largest species of bee in the world can grow to a length of 39mm. The smallest is approximately 2.1mm long.

■ A honey bee can fly up to 24km in an hour. Its wings can beat 200 times per second or 12,000 beats per minute.

■ The average worker bee lives for just five to six weeks while a queen bee can live up to five years.

CAN you tell the difference between a bumblebee and a honey bee? If the answer is no, don't worry because a survey for Friends of the Earth shows that a majority of people can't.

The organisation has launched its annual Great British Bee Count, which aims to raise awareness about the importance of bees, the threats they face and what can be done to help protect them.

Did you know, for instance, that there are more than 250 species of bees in Britain? However, the survey carried out by FoE shows that when asked to identify a honey bee – one of the most common types – almost half mistakenly chose a bumblebee.

Television wildlife prese

Michaela Strachan, who is supporting the Great British Bee Count, said: "Bees are so important to our ecosystems but they desperately need our help."

"There are two very easy ways you can do your bit. You can help create bee-friendly habitats and you can get involved in bee counts.

"Bees are great for gardens so choose bee-friendly plants and see how many bees you can attract."

Bee expert Professor Dave Goulson said: "Britain's bees are facing multiple threats but the good news is that we can all play a part in helping them."

"Making our gardens and allotments more friendly to bees is easy to do and can help make a real difference. If you don't have a garden you can ask your school or local council to create bee-friendly spaces."

■ For more information about the Great British Bee Count and how to take part, visit www.foe.co.uk.

until June 18, Monday-Saturday 10.30am-3pm

A show of energetic new work by the Harlow Young Creative's group plus an exhibition of work by students from Passmore's Academy entitled 'A Vision Into Spirituality And What It Means To Me'.

COMING to a hairdresser near you comes a unique play that celebrates the conversations you have while being coiffured.

In the latest theatre production for people that don't do theatre, In Good Hands invites audiences in on the banter between salon owner Julie and her best customer Lisa.

In association with Harlow Playhouse the play will take over two real life hairdressers: Elements Hairdressers in Bishop's Stortford and Mr Smith's Hairdressers in Epping.

Lead artist Catherine Ireton, who plays Julie, said: "Hairdressers are places where normal social rules do not apply. People feel free to talk about taboo things.

"The idea came about through a discussion with Grace Kiely, who plays Lisa. Women have a relationship with their hairdresser that is quite unique.

"It is very up close and personal. That is the inspiration behind the piece and since then we have been putting the production together as a show with songs and stories."

Held as part of Harlow Playhouse's Pay What You Can Season the Bishop's Stortford show will be held on Sunday, July 3 and the Epping show on Monday, July 4.

A real life hairdresser will actually give one audience member the works while the show is going on.

The other 20-30 audience members can sit back and enjoy the show inside the salon, but wearing headphones which give a surround sound effect of ongoing haircuts.

There are songs and plenty of personal dialogue as the 50 minute play progresses, but Catherine could not be drawn to define the play to a genre.

"It is not a traditional drama by any sense," she said. "Nor is it a musical. It is stories and songs inspired by hairdressing. We hope the piece will feel quite authentic."

Catherine, who is 33, continued: "There are less places for people to have these conversations in high streets now. Setting the piece up at a hair salon was very important to us.

"Through a projector the play is actually broadcast outside as well, so people passing by can see what is going on. But the people with tickets inside the salon will get a better feel.

"We try and get across that sense of location. The show is really one of a kind.

"I play Julie. She has been working in the salon for a few years. There is a lot of talk with Grace about the people that have come in over the years. Grace is just a typical client, they have known each other for years and there is quite a lot of banter between them."

Julie does not cut the hair of Grace but she does style it over the running time, which is designed to reflect the typical length of a cut, wash and blow dry.

The dates in Bishop's Stortford and Epping are part of a tour for Catherine and Grace who will premier the show at a salon in Cork, in their native Ireland.

"Harlow Playhouse has been amazing," continued Catherine. "We approached them and they secured the salon."

"It is quite a mad project and we found people were really up for it, or they were not.

"I am feeling great about the shows. We are really excited to finally be performing as we have been working on it for a year.

Drama will be a cut above

"It is going to be a lot of fun."

In Good Hands will be performed in association with Harlow Playhouse at Elements Hairdressers, in South Street, Bishop's Stortford, on Sunday, July 3 at 8pm.

A second performance will be held at Mr Smith's Hairdressers in High Street, Epping, on Monday, July 4 at 8pm.

Performed as part of Pay What You Can season there is no charge but audience members are invited to donate into an envelope at the end of the performance. Booking is advised.

Don't Worry - and get down to the Hit Cave

CONCERNED Harlow's rock scene might be on the demise? Well, Don't Worry.

The reassuringly named four-piece has been together for a productive 18 months which has seen the release of two EPs.

Led by singer and guitarist Ronan Kehoe, Don't Worry will perform in the latest Hit Cave night at Burnt Mill Snooker and Social Club in Harlow on Friday.

"A few of us were part of various bands in the Harlow area," said 25-year-old Ronan. "We knew each other and it culminated in us forming Don't Worry."

"We are fond of the DIY ethos in music. Doing everything yourself. That is what we are trying to do with the Hit Cave too."

"We are trying to play shows for people who are community minded, it is all about the community spirit."

Ronan founded the Hit Cave alongside Tony Morris in Bishop's Stortford. The popular initiative promoted up and coming bands in a busy show.

The pair transferred the Hit Cave to Burnt Mill earlier this year as they spotted a gap in the market when The Square shut, it was thought, for the last time on December 31.

Don't Worry has played already before a packed home crowd in Burnt Mill in January.

"It was fantastic, it far surpassed our expectations," said Ronan of the gig. "Everyone had a good time. It can be nerve wracking thinking about the turnout, but we were all pleasantly surprised by the number."

"We are hoping for something similar this week."

Other acts on the bill are Epona and Garden Room, all alternative and emo bands according to Ronan.

He is joined by fellow singer/guitarist Sam Watson, drummer Jack Byrne and Conor Bond who plays bass guitar. All four call Harlow their home.

Ronan, who lives in Westfield and attended the former Passmores School, continued: "I think brand new music needs help anywhere to get started."

"When you are in a town like Harlow it is not so easy to access new music. That is the main reason so many venues book tribute bands as they will always get a good pay out."

"There is nothing wrong with that but there is no reason why new music should not be so popular."

The Hit Cave stepped into Harlow to carry on the work of The Square in providing a stage for new bands to come forward.

However, The Square has recently announced bands will return to the Fourth Avenue venue with a fresh line-up of gigs revealed.

Where does that leave the Hit Cave?

"We never meant to be pitted against The Square," said Ronan.

"We thought there was nowhere now for bands to put on original music. In the meantime The Square were getting it back together, I think there was a petition involved."

Ronan has just finished a degree at Goldsmiths University in South London and is beginning to turn his attention to the band and the Hit Cave full time.

He added: "We have recorded and released two EPs and a single, which we want to play this year and also get a new EP."

"We play shows over the country and it's always great to come back to our home town. Hopefully there will be even more people than in January."

"We are hoping to put Harlow on the map and make it a town that bands want to come to and play."

Don't Worry will perform at Burnt Mill Snooker and Social Club, in Edinburgh Way, Harlow on Friday, June 17 from 8pm. Tickets cost £6 on the door.

Peaches' sweet new offering is on the shelves

THE long-awaited debut single from Harlow trio The Albino Peaches has hit virtual shelves this week.

Written over a long period in their home studio, Static Love is a love letter from frontman Dan Parkin to his guitar.

He explained: "I had a freak accident with a wheelie bin in my garden last September that put me out for three months."

"I could barely pick the guitar up let alone to play a riff or chord, pretty tragic really."

"Static Love expresses my love for playing guitar and the compromise of doing this with a broken elbow."

Backed by Kyle Panton on bass guitar and Tommy Judd, who plays drums, the band are hoping the single will launch a successful festival season.

The Albino Peaches were the only band at one edition of the Town Park LinkFest series playing original music last year.

Static Love is out now and can be downloaded from iTunes, Apple Music, Spotify and Google Play.

Male actors are needed for play

BUDDING actors and actresses are wanted by Harlow theatre group Moot House Players for a new play.

The club who meet at Moot House, in The Stow, are holding auditions in July for Winter, a new production set in the early part of the Second World War.

Moot House Players released the call to action through Twitter last week

Three young men are wanted to play characters aged between 28 and 35 while one young woman is wanted to play a character aged between 19 and 23.

A spokesman said: "You will be taking part in the premiere of Winter. Men should be prepared to have their hair cut in a style to suit the period. Costumes and script are provided free."

"Auditions will be held in July and we charge no audition fees."

Anyone interested to appear in Winter should visit www.moothouseplayers.com or call (01279) 831926 or 871145.

West End Calling for songstress Sarinna

BROADWAY lights beckon for an 11-year-old girl from Harlow who has reached the grand final of West End Calling.

Sarinna Proudfoot-Mathurin, who attends Pauline Quirke Academy in the town, will sing to win in the Arts Theatre at London's Leicester Square on Saturday, June 19.

She will begin Year 7 at The Leventhorpe School in Sawbridgeworth in September.

Young musical theatre performers are given the chance to compete in the competition which started with heats in March with the best acts progressing to the semi-finals on Whitsun bank holiday weekend.

All the rounds have been judged by stars of musicals such as Wicked, The Book of Mormon, Les Misérables and Mamma Mia.

Sarinna has already featured in three finals of Rhodes Talent Search and the area finals of the national Teen Star competition.

Her singing exploits have seen her perform at Wembley Arena, Her Majesty's Theatre and the O2 Arena in London.

Salma's heart's in it

Salma Hayek makes no secret of the fact she felt great empathy for her latest incarnation, a woman pining to become pregnant in new fantasy-horror Tale Of Tales.

"My character is obsessed with being a mother. She's having trouble having children and she's deeply sad and lonely because of this, and I could empathise with her because I didn't have my child until I was 41," says the Mexican-born actress, who is mum to eight-year-old Valentina (her husband of seven years, billionaire businessman Francois-Henri Pinault, also has three other children).

"I understand the fear she was going through: is this going to be a possibility for me in my life or not?"

The movie's directed by the acclaimed Italian film-maker Matteo Garrone, whose previous credits include The Embalmer, First Love and TV series Gomorrah, but Tale Of Tales marks his first English language film.

"Anything he proposed I would've done and I will do in the future. I feel so lucky I got to work with him," says Hayek, in that melodic, husky voice.

"I have a lot of Italian friends who are actors and it was always the on-going joke that he usually gives the leading roles to real people, he doesn't work with actors. It was everybody's dream to work with Matteo, so they were very jealous!"

adds the star, looking conservatively glamorous in a black cardigan over a dress strewn with small swans.

Her character, Queen of Longtrellis, is so determined to have a child that she follows the advice of a sorcerer and devours the heart of a sea monster.

"When I read that scene, I thought this is not even going to make it to the film," recalls Hayek, laughing. "I don't know how Matteo managed to do something that is so grotesque yet elegant at the same time, and emotional."

"Every take we would do, he would say, 'OK, now I want you to do this with desperation, now with love. Do it with hope, with sadness'. I didn't know there were so many ways to eat a heart."

The film is inspired by the fairy tales of Giambattista Basile, an Italian academic, courtier and soldier whose work comprised more than 50 stories, weaving the sublime with the shocking, and influenced the Brothers Grimm.

"The book it was based on was written in the 17th century, [but] all the conflicts of the characters are very relevant today and Matteo just takes it to the grotesque and the unimaginable, both psychologically and visually," continues Hayek.

Garrone, who also co-wrote the screenplay, has noted that choosing which tales to include, followed an "invisible thread".

"It involves three stories about women, each at a different stage in life," notes the 47-year-old director.

"But what struck us even more was the capacity of these tales to capture some contemporary obsessions: the powerful desire for youth and beauty, the obsession of a mother who would do anything to have a son, and the violence that a girl must deal with to become an adult."

Hayek agrees: "It's incredible that this author was writing about the obsession with keeping beauty and plastic surgery back then. All the conflicts for women are very relevant today. So even though it's a period piece, it feels very modern."

Given the actress' flawless complexion, it would appear she's found the secret to eternal youth. She looks 35 but turns 50 in September.

"I'm actually very excited about it," she exclaims. "Turning 30 was kind of shocking. I really liked turning 40 and now I'm super-excited about turning 50."

"When I was younger, I thought it was scary – you think you're done with your life by 50, but I'm very fulfilled with what I've done in 50 years."

Raised in an affluent family in the oil rich coastal city of Coatzacoalcas, Hayek was sent to school in the US, before returning to Mexico to study at university.

In her early 20s, she was cast in the title role in the popular telenovela Teresa, eventually moving to Los Angeles to pursue her career in 1991.

Following bit parts, she landed her big break in Robert Rodriguez's Desperado, opposite Antonio Banderas, in 1995.

Rodriguez also cast Hayek in From Dusk Till Dawn, alongside George Clooney and Quentin Tarantino the following year – and she hasn't stopped since, with over 60 acting credits to her name.

"I'm very happy. I feel so energetic and I'm very excited to discover that I still have so much curiosity and so many things to look forward to in my life."

"My life turned out to be better than I thought it was going to be when I was 20, so I think it's a really exciting time," states the star, who executive-produced the hit US TV series Ugly Betty and spent almost a decade bringing her passion project Frida to the big screen.

The biopic earned multiple award nods, including a Best Actress Oscar nomination for Hayek, who's currently filming The Hitman's Bodyguard, while two new movies, the adult animation Sausage Party and comedy Drunk Parents are in the offing.

The Rockgrass masters return to play again

SELF-proclaimed creators of rockgrass Hayseed Dixie are to make a much-anticipated return to Bishop's Stortford to headline this summer's The Bish Bash music festival.

Hosted by the team behind Stortfest, the event takes place in Sworders Field on Saturday, July 16, and will feature 12 hours of great live music across two stages.

Also confirmed are the masters of piano-bashing Cockney mayhem Buster Shuffle, Essex reggae ska collective New Town Kings and London-Irish Celtic punk band Neck.

Hayseed Dixie are back by popular demand having put in a stonking performance at the 2010 Stortford Music Festival.

Formed in East Tennessee back in 2000, the band released their debut album, A Hillbilly Tribute to AC/DC, the following year and have gone on to release 14 more, consisting of both original material and reinterpretations of previously-rendered songs. They have performed all over the world, gaining an army of fans and are definitely an act not to be missed.

Having gained a dedicated European following, Buster Shuffle built their reputation touring the UK with the likes of

The Holloways, The Wombats and Chas 'n' Dave before signing to a record label.

Since then, they have gone on to release two albums and an LP, support Madness and The Blockheads on tour and perform in front of huge crowds at some of the most popular festivals across Europe.

Also appearing on the day are the hugely-entertaining DeepBlackLed, who packed out the bar tent at last year's festival thanks to their rousing renditions of all your favourite rock classics.

Local favourite Dean Austin will unleash his new band Jargon Lynch, whose debut EP has been recorded thanks to sponsorship from Stortford Music Festival.

Other acts on the bill include Stortford singer/songwriter Ryan Thwaites, The Mike Lenson Band, Pop-punk band A Few Too Many, Triplet Code, The Fruitful Earth, Touch of Blue and Embassy, who were crowned winners of the festival's student band competition last year.

The new bandstand will house an acoustic/open mic stage and those who prefer something a bit different can head to the Stortford Soundsystem Shed.

Younger guests can enjoy a variety of activities in the kids' zone and there will also be demonstrations from local groups and clubs.

The Rubadub beer tent will be serving a range of local beers and ciders and a number of catering outlets will be on hand to keep revellers fed throughout the day.

Festival organisers Annabel and Twig said: "With Stortford Music Festival taking a break for 2016, we wanted to ensure we still put on a live music event that the whole family could enjoy.

"The Bish Bash is all the fun of the main festival packed into one day and brings together some of the best acts from past years, alongside new talent.

"We're massively excited to be able to bring Hayseed Dixie back to Stortford, as they are the band we've had the most requests for since their performance in 2010, and the rest of the line-up is equally as fantastic.

"It promises to be a great day out so we hope to see you there!"

Tickets for the event are on sale now at <http://live.advancedticketing.co.uk/k?=-stortfordfestival&tracker=OBS16> and are also available from the Tourist Information Centre in Market Square.

More details are available at www.stortfordmusicfestival.org.uk or 'like' the Stortford Music Festival Facebook page for updates.

Howard's way to go!

It seems we are awash with French fever at the moment. With the BBC's latest romp-fest Versailles being screened and the ridiculously catchy BBC theme tune for the Euros '16 tournament, La Foule sung by Izzy Bizu, who is not French, although she sounds as though she should be.

We are all hooked in our house, and are singing along as best we can. The original was sung by Edith Piaf and is certainly worth a listen. I have been back to school at a weekly French class for at least a year now and yet I still cannot roll my rrrr's, and certainly not like the amazing Ms Piaf. Those alveolar trills evoke envy in me, I can tell you.

I'm really enjoying the summer of sport so far, although my daughter Lily is horrified at just how much airtime is now devoted to her least favourite type of viewing. Less time for mindless American sitcoms you understand.

For the first time ever following an international football tournament, I have divided loyalties, what with Wales being represented in the footie alongside England. And as if that wasn't bad enough, they are drawn in the same group. It's very difficult to know who to support. (Cymru am byn!) But come on England too!

In other news, my column-writing role model, and long-term family friend

SAIRA

with Masterchef semi-finalist Saira Hamilton

Howard Croft, who writes for the North Yorkshire weekly paper the Malton & Pickering Mercury, has published a book.

Entitled 'Howard's Way: the first five years', it contains more than 100 of Howard's articles.

I have known Howard since I was 11-years-old, being the father of my oldest friend Helen (not that she is very old, rather that we have been friends for the longest time).

We used to refer to him as 'Victorian Dad', as he was very strict when we were teenagers, but he has always been very funny and prone to embarrassing Helen (and her friends) at every possible opportunity. Great parenting advice, as I am now discovering.

Only when we were in our 20s did I fully appreciate Howard's dry Yorkshire humour and eclectic sense of fun, when he used to treat us to evenings out at his club, the Groucho.

On one memorable occasion, on leaving the Groucho, we decided we needed just one more drink for the road and hastened into another Soho bar, where he demanded a table for himself and 'his bitches', much to the consternation of the young waitress.

All the profits from 'Howard's Way' go to the Ryedale book festival, and details on how to purchase the book are available at www.ryedalebookfestival.com.

And finally, another very important person has been in the news this week, as Her Majesty the Queen celebrated her 90th birthday.

I have been developing a lot of new fusion recipes over the last few weeks for a new project I'm working on and the Queen's celebrations reminded me of one of the original Anglo-Indian fusion dishes, first made in honour of the Queen's grandfather, George V's Silver Jubilee in 1935.

Coronation chicken is one of those versatile recipes you can use for salads, sandwiches and vol-au-vents and is one of Jim's favourite things.

It's also one of only two dishes I will consider using curry powder for: My recipe combines tender, poached chicken with creamy mayonnaise and sweet dried fruits.

Sweep through up-to-date, but historical home

BROOM Cottage has origins dating back to the 1930s and although some period features remain such as fireplaces, the property is very much up to date with all the fixtures and fittings one expects from modern day living.

The accommodation over two floors extends to over 2,000 square feet, comprising of an oak floored entrance hall, dual aspect living room with fireplace, a separate spacious dining room with fireplace, a family room, a superb cottage style kitchen/breakfast room with granite work-surfaces and an antique style 'island', plus a separate utility room and cloakroom.

Upstairs there are four double bedrooms, two of which have luxurious en-suite shower rooms and completing the accommodation is a contemporary white suite bathroom.

The external space is perfect for entertaining guests, with parking options both front and back for several vehicles as well as a double garage and car port.

The private rear garden, which is enclosed by established hedges and fencing, enjoys a southerly aspect of lawns, patio and a gazebo.

Tickled pink

Pink. It's a charming little word, like a single musical note, but it has the power to divide like no other colour.

Pink has got a huge weight of baggage riding on it – it's Barbie doll, baby girl, fluffy, lightweight, romantic, pretty pretty and a [pale] red rag to a bull to many feminists. Of course, if you are Indian or Japanese, or indeed living in 18th century Britain, then it would have a masculine connotation – these things are not set in stone...

Well, I used to loathe pink for most of the reasons I mentioned until I started researching colour when I became an interior designer.

Working with it entirely changed my view – it is one of the most versatile and useful colours in the entire palette, always warming and cheering. It can be in your face fuchsia or barely blush there, or indeed, the pretty candy pink that is the first tone that usually springs to mind. The key to using it is the shade you pick for the result you want.

The one that is all the rage at the moment is achingly sophisticated and subtle, a very soft almost-not-there wash of a colour. It's got a hint of yellow base in it, making it almost – but not quite! – a nude beige tint.

Add some of this colour now over the summer and it marks you out as absolutely on trend, and, come the cooler days, it will add an understated and delicate warmth. So a real winner this one.

Being so subtle, it's a very easy colour to use, and you probably don't need me to give you some ideas, but I'm going to anyway! It works with virtually any colour you like, though I might avoid some of the yellows – always a tricky colour, yellow, and in this instance could make the pink feel sickly.

It works particularly well with neutrals, ensuring that your scheme will have a liveliness that is a world away from the noughties clinical minimalism: it will warm a dove grey or a brilliant white and add depth to a soft caramel.

If your overall scheme is neutrals, remember to add lots of textures or surfaces with different finishes to provide interest – metallics and velvets or knubbly tweeds and sheers.

Master of the sophisticated greyed neutral, Farrow & Ball, have launched a new colour in exactly the right shade, called Peignoir. They describe it as 'grey pink with a romantic feel inspired by the chiffon gowns in which ladies traditionally brushed their hair in boudoirs.' I'm not entirely sure that that inspires me, but the shade is gorgeous. I like the way they pair it with a grey neutral, Worsteds, and the quirky red telephone gives it a shot of grounding colour.

With other colours, it will enliven a dull green or feel avant garde with a strong clear orange. It will be quite intriguing with a soft blue – this year Pantone's colour of the year was in fact this combination, Rose Quartz and Serenity, 'reflecting connection and wellness'. So now you know...

My particular favourite combination is with a soft dull teal, which is almost grey, but warmed through with blue-green. The new collections by Sheila Coombs [a master of colour] at Brian Yates are a case in point.

If you want to make sure there is not a hint of a possibility that this is girly, then partner it with narrow dark framed black and white photographs.

You don't need to go so far as to make them of car engine blocks or a rugby match on a rainy day – the sharp contrast and graphic nature will do the business.

PROPERTY TALK

Harris's home before Dumbledore

RICHARD Harris turned down the role of Professor Albus Dumbledore in the first Harry Potter film in 2001, but his 11-year-old granddaughter begged him to reconsider, threatening never to talk to him again if he refused the role.

One of the last century's hell-raising actors, he died a year later, but appearing at Hogwarts introduced Harris to a new generation of fans. He'd not enjoyed cinematic success for a while, but at the height of his stardom in the 1960s and early 1970s, Harris was as well known for his drunken brawls, bankruptcies, divorces and philanderings as his acting.

A touring production of Camelot, with the actor as King Arthur, grossed £46m for the theatre company he ran, making him very rich. So rich that he even left a Rolls-Royce Phantom Five in a garage in New York for 25 years because he'd forgotten he owned it – at a cost of about $400 a week.

Harris was a canny property investor though, shelling out on homes around the world, including the Tower House in Holland Park for £75,000 in 1969 which he then sold to Led Zeppelin guitarist Jimmy Page – who still lives there – a few years later.

He also once owned this Grade II-listed six-bedroom cottage overlooking Warmington village green in the Cotswolds. With walled gardens and courtyard, Harbages Farmhouse has got stacks of period features including a flagstone floor, window seats, large inglenook fireplaces with wood burning stoves, bread oven and exposed timbers.

It's on the market for £1.095m.

Perfect place for a Burns night?

ICONIC Scottish poet Robert Burns is so well loved around the world that there are more statues of him than any other non-religious figure, after Queen Victoria and Christopher Columbus.

The bard penned Auld Lang Syne and inspired the millions of Burns Suppers that take place around the world every year, held in his honour since his early death.

When he wasn't busy putting pen to paper, he had a pretty busy schedule of hard drinking and womanising, fathering 12 children from four mothers.

A farmer's son, born in Alloway, South Ayrshire in 1759, Burns found fame as a poet at 27, but despite inheriting his father's farm, soon got into financial difficulties and had made two women pregnant.

He married and swapped farming for full-time employment as an excise officer, but the steady income gave him the funds to drink heavily and he died, aged 37, of rheumatic fever, after collapsing drunk by the roadside in the pouring rain.

He often stayed here – once The King's Arms Inn – when on business in Kirkcudbright. Now a five-bedroom family home with large dining kitchen, it's even got some of the poet's graffiti on a wall which decorators found in the 1920s: 'When January winds were blawin' cauld... (Kirkcudbright?) I took my way but mirksome night did me enfauld... till earlyest day' and is signed, R Burns.

The poet's admirers might find even more inspiration in the Georgian townhouse which is up for sale at £540,000.

Wouldn't this house be... lovely?

AUDREY Hepburn beat Julie Andrews to the film role of Eliza Doolittle in My Fair Lady – despite the English actress's success playing the part on Broadway. However, losing out meant she could star in Mary Poppins – and Andrews went on to win an Oscar.

Hepburn looked the part, but had to have her songs dubbed by another singer, unlike Rex Harrison who, as Henry Higgins, gave the aitch-dropping Cockney flower girl speech lessons so she could pass as a lady.

Based on George Bernard Shaw's Pygmalion, the fictional fiery yet eccentric phonetics professor is said to have been based partly on Henry Sweet, an Oxford phonetics teacher.

Meanwhile, Higgins's home and grand lifestyle were inspired by Horace Hayman Wilson, Boden Professor of Sanskrit at Oxford University in the early 19th century. A linguistics expert with one foot in academia and the other in London high society, Wilson's former 10-bedroom mansion in London's Upper Wimpole Street is now on the market for £14.95m.

The grand Grade II-listed six-storey late-Georgian townhouse was built in 1787 and still has the air of grand consulting rooms about it, with high-ceilinged reception rooms and a 16-seat formal dining room with wall panelling, Corinthian columns and sash windows.

The period property is full of ornate ceiling mouldings and cornices, marble flooring and Georgian fireplaces, with a large study/library and two patio gardens. There's also a two-bedroom mews house at the end of the garden.

Daniel lived in this home for a spell

JK ROWLING has urged her loyal fan-base not to spill the beans on the action in her much-anticipated stage show.

She's asked her Twitter followers to keep the plot of Harry Potter and the Cursed Child to themselves and allow future audiences to enjoy the new play, which previewed in the West End last week.

The eighth story in the Harry Potter story picks up 19 years after Lord Voldemort was vanquished.

However, fans who weren't quick off the mark when tickets went on sale will have to wait until early 2017 to get their fix. The show even managed to set a West End record when it sold 175,000 tickets in 24 hours.

Former boy wizard Daniel Radcliffe isn't in the new production – he's been busy making movies recently, with his last screen outing as a flatulent corpse in Swiss Army Man.

Big film roles have helped the former child actor grow a £60m fortune and a hefty property portfolio; he's known to have at least three Big Apple apartments under his belt.

Radcliffe grew up at this four-bedroom house in Sherbrooke Road, Fulham, and was reportedly in the bath when he found out he'd won the role of Harry.

Despite having a cupboard under the stairs, it's a world away from the young wizard's modest upbringing at 4 Privet Drive and has had a modern revamp since the Radcliffes lived here.

The terrace has two bathrooms, converted loft and a kitchen with a dining room that opens out onto the garden, with an asking price of £1.45m.

Mini now with extra shot of practicality

FIRST DRIVE MINI Cooper SD ALL4 Clubman

Chris Russon

THE latest Clubman has already made a name for itself as the most family-friendly MINI on the market and now it's getting an extra shot of practicality.

An all-wheel-drive set up is now available on the five seat estate version of Britain's favourite little car and it gives the Clubman plenty of versatility.

In poor conditions it has added grip while for everyday motoring the ALL4 system makes it more sure footed than its front wheel drive counterparts. The ride is a little more fidgety than in the regular Clubman but it is a sensation that does not impact on the car's nifty handling.

Powered by a 190bhp 2.0-litre diesel the Cooper SD ALL4 Clubman is priced from £27,410 and the automatic model we tried cost from £28,975, including metallic paint and a posh looking leather and carbon black interior.

The diesel is available only with an eight speed steptronic auto – a transmission also fitted to the cheaper petrol engined

Clubman Cooper S ALL4s priced from £25,985. Manual Cooper S models start from £24,305.

The bonus of the diesel powertrain is added economy and it's most effective with the auto box resulting in an official fuel return of 58.9mpg with emissions of 126g/km.

That's 14 miles to the gallon more than the petrol alternative and even under real world driving conditions you can expect to see it average more than 40mpg with ease.

However, the all wheel drive set up shaves a hefty 10mpg off the 68.9mpg MINI claims for the regular front-wheel-drive Clubman and that reduces the range of the ALL4 model by the best part of 200 miles.

Nevertheless it should still make almost 500 miles between fill ups and it is just as nippy to drive with a 0 to 60 acceleration of 7.2 seconds and a claimed maximum of 138mph.

The 4x4 system is fully automatic and operates unobtrusively switching power to the rear wheels as required in any of the MINI's three drive modes which range from sport to eco.

Ground clearance of five-and-a-half inches is the same as any other Clubman and while the ALL4 is marginally heavier, luggage capacity remains at a useful 360 litres, extending to a maximum of 1,250 litres with the rear seats folded.

The ALL4 configuration is bound to extend the Clubman's appeal in the mainstream family market and this one is the first four-wheel-drive model to be built at the MINI factory at Cowley in Oxford.

MINI's other four-wheel-drive offering, the pumped up Countryman, is built at a specialist facility in Austria. Apart from ALL4 badges on the wings there are no obvious style changes such as meaty bodywork or protective cladding to denote its added abilities and the latest version of the Clubman is as smart as the rest of the line up.

The 4x4 system is designed not to make it an off-roader but a very capable all-rounder – and one with a modicum of 'soft-road' ability.

Based on the stretched five-door MINI which was introduced last year, the Clubman is a proper five seater and with its characteristic side-opening split tailgates – which can be operated remotely – it is much more user friendly than any other MINI and is the one that can genuinely cater for an average family's needs.

It's well equipped and this particular version came with full online connectivity to bolster the sat nav, a head up display, high definition reversing camera and a Harman Kardon hi-fi system among an array of options which took the final price up to £36,070.

As such, this is a premium offering in the compact to medium estate car zone but one which is very capable under all circumstances and still comes with all the lashings of fun that MINI has made its trademark.

Claire Petulengro YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20

You are allowing work problems to get the better of you. Arrange to step back and do something which you know relaxes you. I can see you've spent far too much of your time and energy lately trying to please others who would not go as far for you. Setting boundaries hands you back the power you've been craving. Ring now so we can talk about what you did last weekend.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 348 65p per minute

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21

There are several opportunities for you to make your mark in life this week, but all of them require you to leave your comfort zone. Go for it Taurus, as I can see from your stars that you have what it takes to get to the top. Last minute travel disruption is your chance to show how good you are in a crisis. Ring now to hear how solo business ventures have success written all over them.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 349 65p per minute

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

There is an air of urgency to your love life which is telling me that you may be rushing into something which is not actually in your best interests. Slow your pace and don't be afraid to ask questions. They are what can gain you the respect you have been longing for. Others actions cause you distress, but know in advance you will never be blamed by others. Ring now for support.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 350 65p per minute

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22

Something you have tried to succeed in has failed, but that doesn't mean you can't succeed next time around. Regardless of what happened, what is important is that you tried in the first place and that is what those who matter will take into account. A new attraction makes for an awkward atmosphere with friends. Ring now so I can tell you about tomorrow today.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 351 65p per minute

LEO JULY 23 - AUGUST 23

A more confident Leo is slowly, but surely emerging and you no longer worry about others view your dreams. You realise and acknowledge that it is how you feel that really matters. Time taken out of life to think and reflect helps you to reach a decision which puts your life firmly back on a constructive course. Ring now to hear how Saturn helps you reclaim lost finances.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 352 65p per minute

VIRGO AUGUST 24 - SEPTEMBER 22

Hurry Virgo, you are running out of time to make your mark in the professional world, as someone is getting tired of waiting for you to fulfil your so far empty promises. I know you're worried about doing something which is yet to be tackled, but hold your head high. You can and will succeed my friend. Ring now to hear how Mercury helps you heal an old family rift.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 353 65p per minute

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23

Try not to be harsh on a close one who has told some sort of a lie or you could be setting boundaries you will not be willing to live by. Fellow Librans help you find your feet in new business deals and may also be able to work alongside you. Accept an apology from an older face as they will not be making it a second time. Ring for short cuts in work and monetary matters now.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 354 65p per minute

SCORPIO OCTOBER 24 - NOVEMBER 21

What you think to be fact may well turn out to be fiction and it would be to your advantage to wait and watch until you've seen what this week can reveal. A new challenge in your career offers you the chance to take your talents to a whole new level. Voice your desire to get ahead. It's what can make your future a great one. Ring now to hear how relationships are in for a major shake up.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 355 65p per minute

SAGITTARIUS NOVEMBER 22 - DECEMBER 20

You think you don't have the tools you'll need to succeed in what is ahead, but you are wrong my friend. Listen when others talk and try not to talk at or over them. This is the beginning of great things for you if you can learn to slow your pace. A brush with fame in your career proves exciting. Ring now to hear how June promises to boost your emotions in love and relationships.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 356 65p per minute

CAPRICORN DECEMBER 21 - JANUARY 20

I would be wiser for you to focus on the small things which, by the way, appear to be largely taking care of themselves. No matter how small a thing you have left undone, focus as they will multiply. You discover good news financially which may require you to seek out a legal form or document of some sort. Ring now to hear how older males relate to life changing news.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 357 65p per minute

AQUARIUS JANUARY 21 - FEBRUARY 19

Instead of getting angry with a close one, why don't you try asking what the motivation behind the decision they recently announced was? You'll soon discover that there is far more to this story than first meets the eye. The pieces of the jigsaw of life you put into place help you feel happier and more secure about where you are going. Ring now to hear why you can afford to ask for more.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 358 65p per minute

PISCES FEBRUARY 20 - MARCH 20

If you can avoid telling lies, then do so, but it seems that many of your sign really do feel as if they had no choice. News of babies or pregnancies helps you realise that the majority of your close ones make decisions without consulting others. Acknowledge this with grace and insight, not anger. Ring now to hear why it is imperative to show support to family over the weekend.

(High Street, Roydon)
(Temporary Prohibition of Traffic) Order 2016

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council intends, not less than seven days from the date of this notice, to make the above Order under Section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984. Effect of the order: To temporarily close that length of High Street in the Parish of Roydon in the District of Epping Forest from point 10 metres either side of level crossing.

The closure is scheduled to commence on 28th June 2016 for two nights 00:30 to 05:30 days or where appropriate signs are showing and weather permitting.

The closure is required for the safety of the public and workforce while track maintenance works are undertaken.

The alternative route will be via High Street B181, Harlow Road, Roydon Road, Elizabeth Way A1169, A414, High Street B181 and vice versa.

Access for emergency service vehicles and pedestrians will be maintained at all times during the closure.

The Order will come into effect on 28th June 2016 and may continue in force for 18 months or until the works have been completed, whichever is the earlier.

(Various Roads, District of Epping Forest)
(Temporary Prohibition of Traffic) (No.2)
Order 2016

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council has made the above Order under Section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984.

Effect of the order: To temporarily close the various lengths of road in the District of Epping Forest as specified:

Road	Description	Alternative route	Times
Forest Way, Loughton	From its junction with York Hill for a distance of 150 metres in a north westerly direction to Bridal Path	No diversion route available	09:00 - 17:00
Hoe Lane, Nazeing	From its junction with Middle Street for a distance of 350 metres in a north easterly direction to its junction with Palmers Grove.	Betts Lane, Nazeing Common, Middle Street and vice versa	19:30 - 05:00
Netherhall Road, Roydon	From its junction with Hamlet Hill, north to its junction with Glen Faba Road	Low Hill Road, B181 Epping Road, Tylers Road, Hamlet Hill and vice versa	19:00 - 05:00

The works being undertaken will take place within an 18 month period from 23 June 2016, exact dates and time will be specified on <http://roadworks.org/>. The roads will be closed to facilitate each phase and then re-opened to the public. Access will be maintained for pedestrians and emergency services. Diversion routes will be signed at each location and residents will be informed of the dates of each phase via letter/leaflet drop and advanced warning signs on the road.

Phase One

Pre-surface patching works. These works comprise filling any surface defects and raising/replacing worn iron works (manhole covers and gully's) as well as removal of cat's eyes if present.

Phase Two

Surface dressing. The process entails spraying the road with bitumen and covering it with granite chippings, after which the road is then rolled, which along with the action of the traffic, embeds the chippings into the surface. The road will be swept within 48 hours and after 7 days. The bitumen part of the surface dressing as well as securing the chippings to the existing surface will seal the old road surface, thus preventing the ingress of water which causes deterioration of the road surface and will improve skid resistance.

Phase Three

a) Reinstatement of white lines if required. Reinstatement of any road markings.

b) Reinstatement of any road studs.

For all enquiries please contact our Contact Centre on 0345 603 7631.

The Order will come into effect on 23 June 2016 and may continue in force for 18 months or until the works have been completed, whichever is the earlier.

TOP GUNS: The impressive Newhall team are off to Barcelona

Newhall boys sign for Gunners

THREE Newhall Rangers U7s have been picked up by the Arsenal Academy – after helping their team enjoy a remarkable campaign.

The Harlow team played up an age group in the U8s and have gone unbeaten all year, winning two league cup competitions.

They are now preparing to head to Barcelona to play in the Nou Camp.

Coach Ryan Jessey said: "Some of the football on show this season has been amazing with great goals and passing football which has led to Alfie and George Jessey and Mikey Willett being at Arsenal.

"They have played all over the country for them, including at Manchester City, Liverpool and Aston Villa and have been kept on for another year.

"Bobby Lees has signed for Ipswich Town and all the other boys have received offers for trials and are hoping something will come from that."

Manager and club chairman Mick Willett said: "The club has grown massively lately and with the boys being in at pro clubs that shows the level of coaching the club gives all players."

They have been invited to compete in a European tournament in the Nou Camp and take on some of the best teams from around Europe in a competition called the Europa Cup.

They will play four games at Barcelona's training ground and then the following day the boys will fulfil something that not many people will ever do – play in the Nou Camp.

Ahmed strikes another top ton for club

HARLOW Cricket Club established their credentials as serious promotion contenders with a win over Southend-On-Sea.

Put into bat, Harlow were soon on the back foot due to Southend's pace attack of Joe Robbins and Ashleigh McCafferty, their Australian import.

Alan Jones received a painful strike on the left elbow after misjudging a delivery from McCafferty before Robbins dismissed Mohammed Waqas (12) and Rehman Ahmed (2).

Jones and Ahmed Khawaja, last week's centurion, batted with resolve to initially see off the Southend openers and then maintain a decent strike rate.

Their partnership yielded 129, taking Harlow to 168 in the 36th over when Jones (68) was caught.

Khawaja was joined at the crease by Ubaid and the pair put together 90 runs in 10 overs.

Khawaja had reached 113 when he skied a ball to Phil Gray at cover. Khawaja's knock contained two sixes and 13 fours.

Ubaid (53) hit his first half-century for the club as Harlow reached 292-6 off 50 overs – a challenging total.

Harlow needed early wickets and they came courtesy of Callum Sykes and Nicky Baxter, who each removed an opener, and a run out. Sykes also dismissed Tom Phillippe and bowling Robbins (6) with a yorker was a key moment.

Wagstaff (68) was dismissed by Luke Heskett and despite a good cameo by Alex Karkoski (41), Southend were out for 196.

Injuries strike battling Town

HARLOW TOWN felt short to table-topping Belhus on Saturday despite a spirited battle.

Ben Eversden and Paul Morrell had both performed well for the seconds this season and were rewarded with debuts.

Ten homegrown players turned out for Town, but skipper Neil Gladwin, who had been keeping wicket in the previous three weeks, suddenly pulled up with a back injury.

Scott Alderson took the gloves and Gladwin also relinquished the captaincy duties to Ashley Alderson before eventually needing to leave the field.

Jack Elston (3-58) and Daniel Farmer (3-48) kept Belhus to a score of 272-9.

Gladwin decided he was ready to re-enter the fray to bat only for his brother, Jason, to pull up with a pulled calf, meaning Harlow remained with ten men as one replaced the other.

Scott Alderson (41) and Farmer (30) led the way for Town, but they eventually fell short on 212-9.

Sporting gesture key to cup final triumph

Harlow win after opponents 'overrule' umpire's call

Cricket

THE spirit of cricket was alive and well as Harlow retained the West Essex District Board U13 Cup final.

Chasing 134-8, Harlow skipper and key player Ben Yeats was given out to a low catch by his father Andy, who was umpiring, only for opponents High Roding to sportingly call the batsman back as they felt the ball had not carried in an wonderful gesture which ultimately cost them the match.

It was a repeat of last year's final, both sides containing several county players and many district squad members.

Yeats won the toss and put Roding in to bat.

Accumulate

Myles Baldock tempted a mis-cue out of opener Mufaddal Adamjee for a good catch with the score on 49.

Roding continued to accumulate runs at a concerning rate but with 70 odd on the board Matt Hart turned the game on its head, brilliantly supported in the field.

Firstly he trapped one of the Roding Essex county players plumb lbw for the second wicket of the innings and followed that with two further wickets, both bowled in a superb game-changing spell of 3-15 in four overs.

In between, Matilda Prince ran out the visitors' most destructive county player with a wonderful direct hit from mid-on.

Roding were now on the ropes as all the Harlow bowlers maintained good discipline, well supported in the field.

Only a decent late partnership helped the visitors to what appeared to be a par score of 134-8 in 25 overs.

A lot rested on the shoulders of openers Ben Yeats and Giles Silk as they strode to the wicket.

A pivotal moment of the game came when Ben edged behind and was given out by his dad.

It appeared to be a low catch behind the wicket.

As he trudged off towards the boundary it became clear that several Roding players were uncomfortable with the dismissal and to their immense credit agreed the ball had failed to carry to the wicket-keeper and withdrew their appeal, recalling Ben back to the wicket.

They did this despite the fact they were only too aware that this sporting gesture may cost them a cup final victory.

Roding desperately rotated their bowlers seeking the crucial breakthrough but Ben and Giles continued with a pretty much chanceless partnership.

That was until the latter played a very uncharacteristic wayward drive and only succeeded in lobbing a catch back to the bowler for an excellent 33 in a substantial opening stand.

Ben continued to bat with great quality as wickets began to tumble at the other end.

He reached the mandatory retirement score of 40, leaving 20 runs required to win from 5.3 overs.

Harlow nerves were becoming a little frayed as they struggled to pierce the ring of Roding fielders.

An excellent cut shot from Abdullah for a boundary put Harlow within touch of retaining the cup.

Urged on by their team-mates on the boundary, Matilda and Matt Hart saw the side home with some brave running with nine balls to spare.

Club spokesman Martin Stopp said: "It was a fantastic game of cricket between two very talented sides. We have been the two strongest sides in this age group for many years in district cricket and there is a huge amount of respect between the players, parents and coaches of both teams.

"This special relationship will certainly only be enhanced by the wonderful behaviour of the High Roding players who showed the true spirit of cricket."

Athletic club youngsters like to be beside the seaside

Athletics

HARLOW'S youngsters earned a hard-fought fifth place in a tough Eastern Young Athletes League match at Southend.

The Mark Hall Sportscentre-based club were up against some of the well-established and larger clubs in the region.

In the U13 hurdles, Regan Lawrence claimed first place in 13.2sec.

Millie Upton and Annalyse Hassanally were fourth and third respectively in the two girls' races.

Anna Clatworthy and Ami Ashby (personal best) then delivered a third and first place finish respectively in the two U15 races, both in 12.7sec.

Abigail Dawson made her club debut in the U13 high jump and was fourth.

Charles Asante, also on his debut, won the U15 boys' long jump with a distance of 5.49m.

Kieran Bull set a PB in the U17 discus, taking fourth in 27.39m.

Sophie Leigho made her debut in the U17 women's event.

Sophie Magson made her first appearance for the U13 girls in the 800m and picked up a superb second place in 2min 42.9sec.

Molly Womack was second in the B event.

Charlotte Pratt and Savanna Sirkett were fourth and second respectively for the U15 girls.

Jamie Putt and Sam Sloan were first and third for the boys.

Ellie Marklew threw an excellent 15.68m to win the U13 girls' javelin.

Ella Coldicott threw the shot more than 6m for second in the same age group.

Regan Lawrence and James Petty achieved the identical distance of 4.03m in the U13 boys' long jump for a second and third place and Marley Sarling was fourth in the javelin with a throw of 23.42m.

In a re-run of this year's Essex county final, James Petty found himself in third in 13.4sec in the 100m.

Charles Asante clocked 12.3 for third and Dominique Diomande broke the 12-second barrier for the second time this season.

Newcomer Dara Skeoni won the U17 men's shot with a huge throw of 12.12m.

Jordan Sheridan made a welcome return, following a lengthy lay-off with injury, in the triple jump (11.79m) for second.

Leo Chaschin took first in the B event. Ruvimbo Mukachana threw the javelin more than 30m for third and Anna Clatworthy jumped a PB in the U15 high jump of 1.45m.

CELEBRATIONS: Work is set to begin on Harlow RFC's new facilities

GOLDEN BOY: Harlow Athletic Club's Richard Chiassaro

Chiassaro is a medal man at Euro Champs

RICHARD CHIASSARO captured his first European title as he starred at the IPC Athletics European Championships in Italy and swiftly added three silver medals during the week.

On Sunday the Harlow Athletic Club member set a championship record of 25.14sec as he blasted to his first major title in the T54 200m at the Carlo Zecchini stadium in Grosseto. "I started to wobble 40m from the end - I missed my push but luckily I could straighten it up and hold on to the lead," said Chiassaro. "I could see I had hit 21.9 mph and know my top speed is 22 mph - on the bend I wasn't that quick but once we hit the home straight I knew I just had to turn it on."

"It was a memorable experience going on to that podium. After Doha (IPC Athletics World Championships) I was so disappointed but Jenni Banks (his coach) and I went away and worked on the things which needed changing and it is working so far."

The success continued for the Harlow athlete on Monday. Only Paralympian David Weir finished ahead of him in the T54 400m, Chiassaro grabbing the silver medal in 46.46.

"It's really good to add silver to my 200m gold. It puts me and Dave (Weir) number one and two in the world in the 400m as it stands," said the Harlow man.

Tuesday brought the T54 800m and he was only behind Weir again with a time of 1min 35.65sec after a brilliant finish.

Chiassaro then took silver in the T54 100m on Wednesday, clocking 14.82, just behind Leo Pekka Tahti, from Finland.

Members of the club, Kier Living Eastern and Harlow Council gathered at the new ground to cut the first turf for the multi-million pound development.

The town's thriving rugby club has more than 300 playing members, ranging from age six up to veterans, with the men's first XV playing in London Division 3 North East, the ladies playing in the National Challenge One South East North league and juniors and minis playing at each age group.

The club will play its last season at the current ground at Ram Gorse before moving to the new facility at Latton Farm, just two miles away, in spring 2017.

The new site, off Howard Way, is more central to Harlow and part of the corridor of sports facilities for the town that already includes football fields and the Harlow Leisurezone.

Alan Brooking, chairman of Harlow RFC, said: "Our current clubhouse was built in 1955 and, as much as we love it here, we have run out of playing and training space."

Latest design

"The clubhouse is no longer fit for the modern requirements of a multi-age, multi-sex playing membership so to see work starting shortly is testament to all those who believed and worked on this project over the past 20 years."

"The new club will be a purpose-built facility using the very latest design techniques inside and out, with four adult pitches and two mini pitches, floodlights to training pitches and first XV pitches and a two-storey clubhouse encompassing all of the RFU and Sport England guidelines which we believe will provide a fantastic facility for our members both on and off the pitch."

He added: "One of the key reasons for the move is to support the club in significantly enhancing the development of rugby both for the club and the local community."

"The club will retain its status as a community amateur sports club, and as such we are also very keen to support other not-for-profit organisations in the town that require space."

Tony Durcan, Harlow Council's Portfolio Holder for Regeneration & Enterprise, said: "This is a fantastic day for Harlow Rugby Club and for the town's continued regeneration."

"Harlow is very proud of its sporting traditions, the facilities it provides and the difference this all makes to people's lives. The new state-of-the-art rugby club home will be a place for all the community to enjoy."
